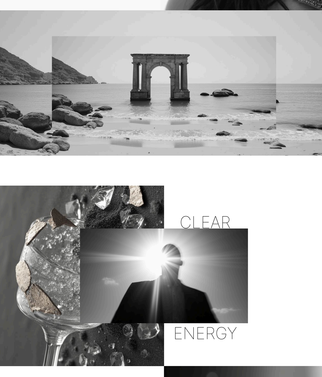
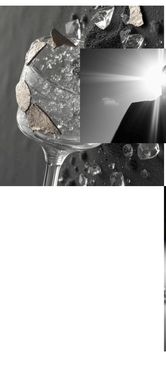
THE GREEKS DEVELOPED THREE MAIN ARCHITECTURAL ORDERS

Doric, Ionic, and Corinthian, each with distinct styles and characteristics. These orders reflect the sophistication of Greeks' mastery of stone construction and their dedication to both form and function. These structures not only served religious purposes but also symbolized the cultural and political ideals of ancient Greece.

THE SEA.

SILVER





CLEAR ENERGY

2024